92% of Futures Program participants said they gained valuable skills and experiences.

ABOUT THE FUTURES PROGRAM

The year-long program begins with an intensive one-day learning experience during PALTC23, AMDA’s Annual Conference. You will be introduced to the numerous career opportunities in PALTC and network with those who work in the setting.

Following PALTC23, Futures Connect, our virtual program, provides ongoing resources and opportunities to network with PALTC leaders and colleagues.

WHY PALTC NEEDS YOU

By 2030, 3.5 million more health-care professionals will be needed to care for our aging society.

To meet this growing demand, AMDA – The Society for Post-Acute and Long-Term Care Medicine invites clinical professionals early in their career to join AMDA’s Futures Program, a PALTC workforce development initiative. Whether you’re a physician, nurse practitioner, physician assistant, pharmacist, social worker or other health-care professional, a career in PALTC is very fulfilling.

APPLICATION PROCESS

Applicants must complete an online application and submit:
- Curriculum Vitae (CV)
- Letter of interest describing your interest in PALTC and how you think you’ll benefit from the program (250 words or less)
- Letter of support from your Program Director or an AMDA member

Visit paltc.org to submit your application by November 17, 2022.

For me, participating in the Futures Program was life-changing. It gave me a vision for what a career in post-acute and long-term care medicine could be and provided me with a community that has helped me realize that vision.”

Suzanne Gillespie, MD, RD, CMD Futures Class of 2005 2022 AMDA President

I think for many people, this journey towards PALTC leadership begins at the Futures Program, so I will always be a strong advocate of the program.”

Mila Little, DO, CMD Futures Class of 2010 2022 AMDA President-Elect

My experience as a Futures participant encouraged me to redirect my practice in geriatrics and focus my effort towards achieving better: better outcomes for my patients, better practice surrounding inclusive healthcare in my community, and maintaining better self-care to continue advocacy and awareness regarding aging.”
